Dutch office of InSites Consulting expands and moves to new base

The Rotterdam branch of InSites Consulting is conquering space with a September move to larger premises, the company has announced. The change of address is the result of the company's rapid growth in the Netherlands. The new office has capacity for over twenty staff and includes space to hold events for 100 attendees.

Space for work and events

Since opening in August 2008, InSites Consulting's Rotterdam office has expanded from two to ten members of staff. The new site will let the team breathe again, since it creates room for over twenty people and provides an ideal location for the seminars and workshops the firm runs.

On the opening night on 9 September contacts across the industry are invited to celebrate with InSites Consulting. The Director General of ESOMAR, Finn Raben is one of the confirmed speakers to welcome the attendees. (More information on <http://www.insites.eu/newoffice>)

"Since opening in Rotterdam, we've been running just to keep up with demand for research and consultancy" says Kristof De Wulf, Managing Partner. "The new office will give us space to work efficiently and gives us the capacity to continue recruiting in future".

On a mission to teach

The features of the new office are intended to benefit the entire Netherlands research community, Ramon Pardo, Research Director points out. "An important part of our mission is to help researchers learn new approaches and practices they can use in their work. Our events are a vital aspect of that work, and the new office, with its large auditorium, will allow us to hold bigger and better events".

The new office is just off the main A20 highway, giving easy access from the rest of the Netherlands.

InSites Consulting

InSites Consulting is a fast-growing, global, online marketing research agency, delivering comprehensive solutions and advice to world leading brands in nearly all industries. Our mission is to challenge conventional marketing & research wisdom by putting conversations and storytelling at the heart of our thinking and acting. We stay ahead of the game via our ForwaR&D lab, co-creating state-of-the-art research solutions together with clients, suppliers, academics, consumers, and professional organizations. Over the last 2 years, we received no less than 10 awards from different internationally well-respected bodies such as AMA, ARF, ESOMAR, MRS, MOA, SPSS, AMMA, and eConsultancy. We do not believe in 'one-size-fits-all' solutions, emphasizing the need for customization and consulting in formulating answers to marketing challenges. Being fully independent, we stand for flexibility and long-term focus. We are headquartered in Belgium, having offices in the UK, France, the Netherlands, and Switzerland.
